

We Are All We Have

You are all you have. The future is all up to you. If you choose destruction, contamination, defeat, torture, control of others you are destroying yourself because you are destroying the source. You are poisoning the font of wealth.

Where does wealth come from? From the heart of a child. A child unmolested. A child undisturbed. A child allowed to grow with support and in health. A child who matures into an adult walking the path of benevolence and understanding. If you destroy others you destroy yourself and the environment you need to live. Are you so foolish to think you can do everything alone? Have you ever truly done even one thing that did not come through others? You are only here because of others. If you hope to get anything at all that you need or desire you must protect, support, enrich, enliven others. Can you get an apple from a dead tree?

Would you like to change the world? Change yourself. You and I are all we have. You and I multiplied by billions. There is no better way.

Victory comes not from getting but from giving.
